From Executive Director, Susan L. Jones

Thanks to everyone who helped us celebrate the launch of the OCMD Hospitality Association, what a fun night! We still have a few things rolling out over the next couple of months, including our new website (ocmdhospitality.com) and updated email addresses. Thanks for your patience as we put those final touches on the back burner and turn our full attention to the 52nd Annual Trade Expo!

This year's Expo will be our biggest EVER, with 509 exhibit booths, interactive activities, live demos, insightful sessions, and nonstop networking. Maverick Mixologist Dean Serneels takes the Spotlight Stage on Sunday, and Monday kicks off with the keynote "Winning Conflict" before the Expo floor opens. Be sure to check the Daily Schedule on the Expo website so you don't miss a thing. If you'd like to volunteer at Expo, we'd appreciate help!

We're also finalizing details for our next Hospitality Huddle on March 24, focused on workforce topics. Plus, with education a key focus, we're planning a ServSafe course for mid-March and a Supervisory Conflict course on April 8. More details coming soon, stay tuned! Happy February! 😊

Unlock the Power of Conflict with Dr. Bryan Deptula

We're excited to announce our keynote speaker, Dr. Bryan Deptula, author and TEDx presenter of "Leaders Are Born to Be Made." His session, Winning Conflict: Finding the "Win" in Every Conflict, will change the way you think about conflict in hospitality.

Conflict is unavoidable in our industry, from guest interactions and vendor negotiations to employee-manager friction that drives turnover. But when handled well, conflict becomes a powerful source of growth, innovation, and stronger teams. In this keynote, Dr. Deptula reframes conflict as a necessary engine for organizational health and teaches leaders how to Invite Good Conflict instead of simply managing it.

What you will learn:

- Turn conflict into growth instead of something to avoid
- Stop the cycle of defensiveness that damages teamwork & performance
- Retain top talent by leading through tension with confidence
- Use conflict to drive innovation and stronger team synergy
